

of said son's issue living at the respective times of payment of income, as have not, or whose parents have not, already received their shares of the principal of this trust as hereinbelow provided in paragraph (3) of this Article I.

(2) During the lives of the respective income beneficiaries hereinabove specified in paragraph (1) (or until each receives his or her share of principal, as the case may be), the Trustee is authorized to pay to such income beneficiaries, respectively, from time to time, such amounts from the principal of this trust as the Trustee shall deem advisable for their respective support, maintenance, and education, taking into account such other income as said income beneficiaries, respectively, may have received or will receive from other sources, and with particular reference to whether the amounts so received or to be received by them are sufficient for the purpose of meeting emergencies, such as illness or other misfortune, or are sufficient for their respective support, maintenance, or education. The determination of the Trustee as to the advisability of making any such payment of principal shall be final and binding upon all persons then or thereafter interested in the trust.

(3) When and if, after the death of the survivor of the Grantor's said son and the Grantor's said daughter-in-law, any living child or children of the Grantor's said son shall have reached the age of thirty (30) years, or any deceased child or children of his leaving issue then living would have reached said age, the Trustee shall forthwith pay over to said living child or children, or, in equal shares, per stirpes, to the issue then living of said deceased child or children, as the case may be, his or her or their full proportionate share or shares of the principal of this trust as then constituted, such proportionate share or shares to be determined by dividing said principal into as many equal shares, per stirpes, as
